

DOCTORATE PROGRAM

Assignment: “Experiential Learning (Autobiography)” (1 credit)

THE DEFINITION OF WHAT HAS BEEN AND WILL BE MY LIFE:

Instruction for self-application: Reviewing one’s life makes contact with all the events, struggles, successes, and failures that have taken place to evaluate where you are now and plan where you would want to be in the future.

Complete the autobiography on a blank page. Review the events, the people who have influenced you, institutions, and key moments that left an important mark in your life. Evaluating the prospective area of your comprehensive resume, take a moment to plan everything that you consider necessary in order to fulfill those prospective moments.

When you clearly have an idea of what has been, what is and what will take place in your life, create a synopsis in three sections where one third of your synopsis talks about the past, one third talks about the present, and the last third about the future.

For more information about this course, please check your Doctorate Student Handbook.

Format to be used:

The format to be used for this course can be found in your Doctorate Student Handbook.

- The link below will take you directly to the format required for this course:
Format for the Experiential Learning \(Autobiography\).

Example to follow:

We recommend that you check out the example for this course located in the Doctorate Student Handbook.

- The link below will take you directly to the example for this course:
Example of the Experiential Learning \(Autobiography\).

Videoconference

You can have more information about this course by watching the following Videoconference AIU has prepared for you.
Please click on the link:

Course Autobiography Videoconference
Assignment Recommendation Videoconference

We are sure that you will be successful.

Sincerely;

Academic Department
Atlantic International University

